GOPALA

- Ritwija Ganguly, Class - III

Once upon a time there was a small boy called Gopala. He lived in a small village outside a forest. He went to school every day by himself. The boy was brave but poor.

One day suddenly Gopala heard a loud sound .He came out of the house and looked all around but could not notice anything. He ran quickly to his mother and said that he heard a loud sound like that of a GHOST. Gopala told his mother that the ghost asked me "Who are you?" But I was frightened to hear the voice talking to me.

The mother said that there is nothing called as GHOST. It was me who had called you out so seriously. The mother said that it was a judgement to see your Braveness my child.

Death

- By, Pratik Chattopadhyay (Class VIII)

It is the time of summer, I was moving from Dhaka to Kolkata by train. For reader's betterment I would have to say that my sixth sense is very much fast. At afternoon, in the train I went for a short nap but the nap was too short because I saw a dream where I was moving in a desert and I was holding two coffins with a rope. I stopped and then opened the 1st one and saw a man with a dress that an army man wears. So it seemed that he was an army man. I was surprised! So I opened the second coffin and I another time I was surprised because what I saw I can't define you, I saw...., I saw....., my.... Suddenly, when I woke up from my nap; I felt that I was sweating. So I went to the bathroom of the train. I washed my face and when I while coming back, I suddenly felt bad and dizzy and about to fall. Suddenly, someone caught me, I thanked him for saving me, and then I asked his name and he introduced himself as Harbinder Singh, he's an army man. I again felt shocked and then he told his seat was behind my seat. I again thanked him and came to my seat. At night, I didn't sleep. The next morning I got out of the train as we reached Kolkata, the City of Joy. But I have no joy in my mind for the last day's dream. I came to my aunt's house. My aunt told me to take rest as I had travelled a long distance. I went to get fresh then after eating some breakfast I went to bed.

After how much time I don't know but I woke with some noise. I woke up and went down and saw my aunt's coffin. Then I went for her funeral. No one was ready to go with me. I took the coffin and started to go to the graveyard. While going I noticed that I was entering inside a desert as I saw in the dream. I think I have brought "Death" with me.

A Rainy Day in School

- By SK. Moin Mandal (Class VI)

Today's date is 21st July, 2019. When I reached school that time it was raining cats and dogs. I just sat on my bench and then our Maths teacher came and started teaching us Maths. That day in 2nd period there was our games period. So, we made a line and went to our school play ground. All of my friends were playing football in the muddy field and I was at the goal post because I was the goalkeeper. One of my friends had fallen in the clay and his full body got covered with the clay of the muddy field. All were laughing at him. He was Deep who had fallen in the clay. All were laughing at Deep and saying 'Muddy Joker', 'Muddy Joker'. After that Deep went to his home. After the games period we all went to our room. Our 3rd period started, then the fourth period. After that tiffin started and we all ate the tiffin by sharing. But raining neither stopped nor did it slow down. After tiffin we attended all the classes: 5th, 6th, and 7th. After 3:10 I went to home by wearing the rain coat.

A Rainy Day in School

- By Abir Nath (Class XI)

Rain, which can also be considered as the poem of the Earth, as it's a natural phenomenon which when occurs, removes all impurities and leaves freshness everywhere. It purifies our environment by showering cool, fresh splashes of natural water. Therefore, it is also considered a gift of nature. It is considered as a blessing of the nature, which gifts us with peace, coolness and serenity along with freshness.

I remember it was on 18th February, the first sign of rains this year. The rain which started the previous night continued its heavy showers till the next day morning. I still remember that my final exams were knocking at the door and in spite of repeated warnings from my parents I still went to attend the school. There was a time when it was just drizzling outside, when I decided to leave for school. Hardly, had I reached the entrance gate of my school then the rain showed up again. I ran to the shade to escape myself from getting wet by the rain water. But those two-three minutes of shower on me was enough to hamper my whole day at school. I almost got wet head to toe. And after getting wet, I regretted on my decision to come to school more so when the rest of the students laughed at me. I became an object of ridicule and banter for them because I was all wet. However, I had to muster all courage to ignore their taunts and ridicule and entered my class room. I was facing so many problems with my wet clothes, especially my trousers that got too wet to be worn till the school hours got over. I've never been in such an embarrassing situation till date. But as it is believed by many that if one door closes than there is always another door that'll be opened by the Almighty. Luckily, my class teacher understood my uneasiness and miserable state and provided me with a pair of an old trouser to replace the wet one. It was such a kind and thoughtful gesture that my class teacher displayed that day. I definitely had a different experience on that rainy day and would never be able to forget it.

One day when I was alone

By - Sujal Kumar Singh (Class IX)

I don't know what to do when I am alone,
This is because the fact I never stayed
But now because I am alone
I want someone to be ahead.
This is a bright and shiny day
With silence coming to my way
This is a phantom experience
Sitting amidst some serenity...

Life is a race and faces the problem....
In this race everyone try to win,
But some person wins and reset loss...
How to get success in life?
Those people who are hardworking in life, they get success in life...
Between life and success there is some of problem
If you win in life's race, then you'd get success.

The Feel of Her Presence

By - Priya Naskar (Class XI)

The Moon was shining full white
While I stood by the sea,
A mild breeze blew off-
On the Moon, your face came to sight –
Quite pretty and charming
Shone the sea water sparkling and glittering
The breeze was still blowing.
The nature within itself was murmuring –
Trying to convey your message
The message of love and friendship, and of old memories;
The message of our separation and grief,
....and that of two friends' spirits!
Blew the breeze;
It touched my body,
I felt your hand's soft touch,
...and the nature was singing in melody!
I started padding along the beach,
Suddenly I stopped, and looked back
I found your footsteps
Printed beside mine each;
I smiled and, started to walk further
I felt you holding my hand tight
That we two were going on together..

I believed, believe and will believe
That our friendships will last forever;
No matter how much we stay apart
And over the years grow older and older.....

A Dream or Reality?

By - Ritika Karmakar (Class IX)

One day, Abhishek got a call on his phone from an unknown caller. His happiness knew no limits when he picked up the call. He finally got his dream job of working in the foothills of the Himalayas, the one he wanted since childhood. So, taking the blessings and good wishes of his Maa and Baba, he took the train from Howrah station to New Jalpaiguri. The train left from Howrah at half past seven in the evening. At about 11:30 pm, the train stopped mid-rail. Abhishek thought it was due to some signal problem.

Suddenly all the people of his compartment got up one by one, but many did not return. Slowly, the compartment got empty and he could see a lot of commotion outside. They all had got down from the train and now started to shout and yell as the train began to move again. Abhishek was surprised to see such an incident. He ran up to the gate to give a helping hand but the train had gained speed. A sense of fright seized him as he was the only one who was left in the entire compartment. When he returned to his seat, he saw a weird man covering his head with a scarf and hair spread all over his face covering his one eye and making him look like a pirate.

The man looked at Abhishek and smiled. Abhishek sat down on his seat and thought that at least he had someone to talk to for the night. He still could not muster up courage to talk to him as he was such a strange one. 'Hi', said the man. Abhishek let his hand out to him but he seemed to have been busy warming up his hands under his shawl, so Abhishek turned back. After a long pause, Abhishek said, "Are you too going to Jalpaiguri?" He replied, 'yes'. Abhishek was getting too bored so he took out a newspaper and read the headlines, 'TODAY'S NIGHT IS SAID TO BE THE MOST DREADFUL NIGHT OF THE YEAR, BEWARE OF SPIRITS!' Next he read that it was a full moon night. When suddenly, the watch struck 12...a chill ran down his spine when he heard a wolf howl far away. When he looked up from his news paper, he screamed in fright to see that the man in front was now wrapped in black fur all over and his red eyes glowed in the dim light. The deadly 'werewolf' almost grabbed him when he heard a shout outside. It was "Sir, this is Jalpaiguri station. Do you want me to carry your luggage?"

It was a coolie who called out to the sleeping Abhishek. He asked the coolie what time it was and he replied 8 in the morning. He got up and started packing up his eatables when he saw the news paper lying on the floor. Whatever happened was a dream or a reality? Abhishek was left in thoughts as he got down the train.

Ideas of Pohiku

By Suraj Jyoti Chakma (Class XI)

Once upon a time, there lived a poor boy, named Pohiku. He goes to school in his hometown called Kativari. He wants to be a big business man, as his hometown is in great danger. It's an island nation in the South Pacific Ocean. As sea level was rising, the island was in danger. It was said that the island would be submerged by sea water in the next twenty years. Pohiku used to do a part time job in a restaurant near his hometown. He earned around $ 350 a day as wage. He had opened a bank account in which he used to deposit $300 per day and the rest of the amount he kept for his family. His father worked as a cook in a five star hotel where he earned $500 per day as wage. Pohiku was a very good and intelligent student at school and passed out, but his family could not support him because of financial problems.

Oneday, when he was working at the restaurant, he came to know by the television that his beloved nation was going to be in a great danger in the next twenty years. He thought how to prevent the nation from the upcoming danger. When he saw garbage were thrown everywhere he thought mainly about plastic bottles and sacks. From the next day, whenever he saw any sacks he collected as much as possible. In the next day, he collected the bottles and filled those sacks with the plastic bottles. By one month he filled 267 sacks, all filled with bottles. When his father asked him why he was not working in the restaurant, Pohiku replied that he would be going to save his country. Pohiku also required some money for the survival of his family and for his project, which he was working. He bought plywoods and ropes to tie the sacks and hammered the plywoods with the sacks properly. He planted mangroves, built a wooden house. After a year the mangroves were grown up and he began to live in that hundred meter floating island. When the people in his home town saw the floating island they were surprised. Pohiku shared his ideas about the floating islands. His idea was appreciated by the Government of Kativari. He was awarded and in a press conference he confessed how this kind of floating islands can save the citizens. Though he would not be able to become a renowned businessman but his ideas had influenced the people of different nations. He was even awarded by the UNO for his great ideas. As global warming is threatening the existence of Earth now-a-days, therefore, these ideas can save us and the earth from destruction.

My Icon

- By Debarjun Saha (Class IX)

I don't know everything about our respected Director Sir of our school. However, how much little I know about him is enough to make him an admirable personality for me. He is not only the founder of the school, he is also our guide, friend and philosopher and I must say he is a genuine person from heart and mind. The day when I met him was an auspicious day. From that day my feelings regarding him has not changed. I clearly remembered the day, it was 15th January, 2008 when I came to school for the admission test. I saw him giving a speech to the tourists who visited our school and stayed for health check-up. I was spell bound by his speech. He formed the Bodhisukha School in the year 2001; he wanted to form such an educational institution which would be able to fulfil the meaning of quality of education. He also provides an opportunity to the rank holders every year to take part in educational excursions and upgrade their knowledge. I have also learnt various values from him, for instance he used to say that to be happy should be the main purpose of life. He is a great social worker, as he helped many poor people financially. He thinks that "Success is not a destination it's a journey". He believes that education means overall development of a student including physical and mental development. He is also awarded with various prestigious awards for his incredible deeds. He is one of my favourite icon and role model.

In our life we attend many parties, but when we attend a marriage party, it gives us very enjoyment than the other parties. In a marriage party there are many different events. Before 3 months ago I had been to my maternal uncle's marriage party. We had went there by train with my mother, my aunt and uncle and then three daughters. At the time of journey in train we had played many game such as ludo, snake-ladder and antakshari and many more. We had ate Roti (Chappati) with one vegetable curry. After that we slept. During midnight we reached our destination, which was "Howrah". From Howrah we had hired a taxi for "Uluberia". We had reached Uluberia at 2:45 a.m. Then we walked a while and reached my uncle's house. We were very tired so we slept for two hours and we woke up at 4:30 for the preparation. We all had took a bath in the pond because there was no shower or any tap. My mother and all other aunts went to the river to take some water for my maternal uncle's "haldi". They came very soon from the river. As they brought the water in time. We had finished the the "Haldi" very early. After that our packing was finished so we had our lunch which was fish-curry, rice and chicken curry. We had started our make-up. I wore one red kurti with a ripped jeans. After setting our make-up we were ready to go. We had reached there at 8:20 p.m. We had seen the full marriage. This was my favourite marriage party I have ever been too.

Mysterious chemistry

EQUILIBRIUM DEPENDS ON THE PERSON WHO IS CREATING IT

Person 1- System has nothing to do when the surrounding is already unstable!!...

Person 2-What about isolated and closed system?

Our ultimate aim is to make the universe stable.

This we can do either by remaining in an open system or by remaining in a closed system.

Note: Equilibrium can only be attained in a closed system.

पजिरे में आज़ादी

आदत है पंछियों को उड़ने की, पजिरे में दम घुटता है,
उड़ने दो उनको आसमानों में,
वहाँ उन्हें सुकून मलिता है।
समझते कहा है, जज़्बातों को,
कैदी खुद को समझते हैं।

बाहर शिकारियों का खतरा है, पंछियों की तलाश में वो भटकते हैं।।
दरद की परवाह उन्हें कहा जो शिकार उनका करते हैं,
पजिरे में रखने वाले अक्सर परवाह उनकी करते हैं।।

নবীনতা

- RAHIMA KHATUN, ENGLISH TEACHER

যে নদী বয়ে যেতে চাই স্রোতের খেয়ালে ভেসে যেতে চাই,
তাকে অকারণ থামতে বলা বৃথা।

যে ফুলে কন্টক থাকে জড়িয়ে,
সুবাসে ও ভাগের প্রলেপ মাখা,
সে ফুলে নৈবেদ্য সাজানোই বৃথা।

যে পাখি উড়তে চাহে,
পথ না চিনেও রোয়াব দেখাই,
তাকে আর আটকানো টাই বৃথা।

তার চেয়ে ভালো বেশি, অপেক্ষাতে।
ঠিক নদী মিলবে মোহনায়,
সুরের কিরণে পাড়ি দিয়ে।
ফুলের সুবাস ও দেবে,
আতরের গান, মনে গেঁথে।
পাখিটিও পড়ে গিয়ে উঠবে আবার,
নবজাগরণে হবে ঝলমলে সাদা,
গেয়ে যাবে প্রাণ- ময় গান,
মাতবে সরল তালে সবে,
নবীন নৃত্য রোলে ভরা,
ধুয়ে যাবে পৃথিবীর সব কালিমারা।
